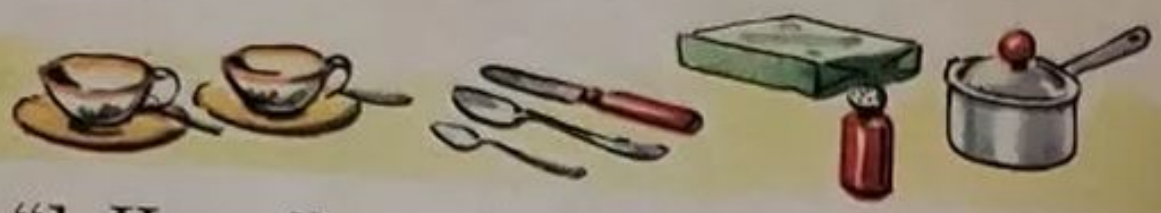
SUSIE likes to play house. She has a family of dolls. She has a little table and chairs. She has a set of little dishes. And she has a really-truly little electric stove, with a set of little pots and pans!

"Now I must learn to cook!" said Susie, the first time she saw her new little stove.

"Yes, indeed," said her mother. "There is a good deal to remember in cooking. Here are some good rules to learn:



"1. Have all your food and dishes and spoons lined up before you start.

"2. Never touch a hot pan without a holder. And never touch the hot part of the stove.

"3. Always pull out the plug on the stove as soon as you finish cooking.

"4. Clean up when you finish. Wash all your dishes. Put away food. And wipe off tables and stove."

"I will remember," said Susie. "Now let's cook, please."

"Let's make cocoa first," said Mike. "I like cocoa."

"Fine," said Mother. "This is how."

COCOA FOR TWO

You will need

cocoa

sugar

milk

little saucepan

teaspoon

tablespoon

measuring cup

1. Turn on the stove.

2. Put in the saucepan:

1 heaping teaspoon cocoa

1 scant teaspoon sugar

1 tablespoon water

Be careful not to spill!

3. Stir gently until it is smooth.

4. Put the saucepan on the hot stove top. In about five minutes, little bubbles will pop up around the edges. The water is boiling.

5. Now set the measuring cup down. And pour in 1/3 cup of milk. Pour slowly and carefully.

6. Pour the milk into the saucepan. Stir it a little, slowly and carefully. Heat the cocoa until steam begins to rise.

7. You may add ½ marshmallow while cocoa is still heating.

Or you may put ½ marshmallow into each little cup before you pour in the cocoa.

Let it cool a little before drinking!

NEXT DAY Susie's doll baby was sick. So she called Dr. Mike. He came with his doctor set and made the doll baby well.

"Thank you," said Susie. "Won't you stay for lunch? I could make cocoa on my little electric stove again."

"Thank you," said Dr. Mike. "I will be glad to stay. But I am a little hungry, too."

"Why not make scrambled egg and toast?" said Mother. "You could have jelly on the toast and milk to drink."

"Fine," said Mike.

"Fine," said Susie. "How do we do it?"

"This is how," said Mother.

SCRAMBLED EGG

You will need

an egg		salt
water		a bowl
a fork		a tablespoon
saucepan		butter

1. Break the egg carefully into the bowl.

2. Add a little bit of salt. Pour it into a spoon first, so you will not get too much.

3. Add a tablespoon of water.

4. Beat lightly with a fork or little beater. Do not splash!

5. Turn on the stove.

6. Put ½ teaspoon butter into a saucepan. Set it on the stove until the butter melts.

7. Then pour in the egg and water.

8. Cook for about five minutes. Stir with a fork so the egg does not stick to the pan bottom. But do not stir too much. And remember not to touch the hot pan handle without a holder!

9. When the egg begins to get dry, turn off the stove.

10. Serve the scrambled egg on little plates, with toast and glasses of milk.

ONE DAY Susie went to the play-store.

"Please give me two marshmallows," she said to grocer Mike. "And two squares of sweet chocolate, or a plain chocolate bar. And four graham crackers."

"My, my, that is a lot to buy!" said Grocer Mike.

"I am going to make a surprise on my little stove," said Susie. "When it is done I will bring you one. It is called Pixie's Delight."

This is how Susie did it.

PIXIE'S DELIGHT

You will need

marshmallows

sweet chocolate

graham crackers

and a knife

1. Put a square of sweet chocolate on a graham cracker for each person (or four sections of a plain chocolate bar works nicely).

2. Put the crackers in the oven until the chocolate is soft. About five minutes should be enough.

3. Cut the marshmallows in half.

4. Take the crackers carefully out of the oven. Put the two halves of a marshmallow on each one, cut sides up.

5. Put back in the oven for five minutes more, or until the marshmallow is soft.

6. Take out, and press another cracker down on top of each Pixie's Delight.

7. Turn off the stove.

When Susie took her Pixie's Delights, on a little plate, to Mike in the play store, she found that he had a surprise for her, too.

"Ice cold lemonade," he called. "Made in the shade!

"I made it myself, too. And this is how."

LEMONADE

You will need

a lemon

sugar

ice cubes
water

glasses

spoon
knife

lemon squeezer

1. Cut the lemon in half.

2. Squeeze out the juice. Use ½ lemon for each glass. Pour the juice from the squeezer into the glasses, being careful not to spill.

3. Put a tablespoon of sugar into each glass.

4. Put two ice cubes in each glass.

5. Fill the glasses with water, and stir carefully until the sugar is melted.

6. If you want pink lemonade, add a little cherry juice or raspberry juice to each glass.

SUSIE and Mike sat at the little table. They ate their Pixie's Delights. And they drank their lemonade.

"This is fun," said Mike. "I like to play eating games."

"I have an idea," said Susie. "Let's ask Mother if we may cook our supper on my little stove."

So they did.

MILK

"First," said Mother, when Susie and Carol were both in aprons, ready to work, "we will fix the cold things. It will not hurt them to stand a while. Then when the soup is hot, and the crackers are toasted, you will be all ready to sit down and enjoy them. This is how we start."

It was, too. Daddy said it was the best meal he had ever eaten in his whole life. And can you guess what Mother's surprise dessert was?

"Of course, dear," said Mother. "It would not be a party without you. But we can manage. You two are such good cooks now, I will let you cook on my big stove just this once.
